

THE FOLLOWING TWO COL- UMS CONTRIBUTED

BY S. G. SPANN.

Treasures for the Memory.

Pure blood means perfect health.

So closely interwoven are all parts of the human body that any deranged part ultimately affects the whole organism through the circulatory process of the blood.

Every person of average intelligence knows that the body is composed of bone, nerve, blood, brain, lymphatics and skin; but it is astonishing how few even among the learned know the real offices performed by each of these functions.

The main of a system of water works is the trunk from which the lateral pipes are all supplied; so is the spinal nerve the trunk line of the nervous system. There are five nerve centres in the human body, each leading to the spine and thence to the brain. It is down this spinal column and by means of these nerve centres that the Oxydonor Sanitarium Company's diagnosis of diseases is infallible. The old school style of examining the tongue or feeling the pulse finds no favor in any Oxydonor Sanitarium.

Nearly all if not all of the malignant diseases especially fevers can be traced to the latent impurities of the blood. These impurities arise from the blood deterioration in various ways. Virus is engendered or the blood becomes impregnated with germs of disease that cannot be reached by medication. All scientists agree that if natural oxygen can be brought in contact with these germs, or the virus in the blood, surely under the physiological law of combustion the disease would be conquered. This is exactly what Oxydonor Victory does. Its application to the human body causes the entire skin to drink in the oxygen of the air through the pores, which immediately oxygenates the blood, invigorates and restores the vital organs to their normal condition. Thousands of the best citizens in all the states and territories of this Union have attested the truth of this statement, and the well informed practitioners of all the old schools never deny the curative efficacy of this spontaneous method. The only danger consists in delaying until the system loses its revitalizing potency.

Water intended for drinking purposes should not be kept in an open vessel in a bed room. The colder it is the more powerful as an absorbent of gases. Nor should the first water drawn through a leaden pipe be drunk or used for cooking, likewise with water in a pump, it becomes impregnated with impure gases.

The average human being consumes about 3,000 pounds of substances during 12 months, 800 pounds of which is atmospheric air.

The El Paso atmosphere is above average in its density and therefore proportionally more invigorating to the pulmonary organs through blood oxygenation. In wet or humid climates electric influences are more current, but the atmosphere is less dense and pulmonary affections are more malignant. Also in rheumatic complaints during wet weather, or in a wet climate, the system becomes clogged with impurities, generating the accretions of acrimonious substances causing the affected parts to inflame. It is evident therefore that if the blood be kept properly oxygenated, the carbon is removed and perfect arterialization is accomplished.

This system is carried out in all its detail in Oxydonor Sanitarium.

It is Absurd

to think that the Oxydonor Sanitarium company would build costly sanitariums in various parts of the country as they have in New York, Detroit, Washington City, Chicago, Jersey City, Atlanta, Ga. and other places, if the principles they advocate are not founded in perfect science, and they are not able to perform all they profess to do for the sick.

It is absurd to suppose that men of learning and high integrity would consecrate their lives to a fraud or a humbug, subjecting themselves to ridicule as hypocrites, quacks and charlatans.

It is absurd to hear medical men, or any others who pretend to have common sense condemn a principle either in science or ethics without having studied even the a b c of that principle.

It is absurd to see a sick man or woman pine away, languish and die when nature is full of relief, and science comes to aid them in the proper acceptance of this relief.

It is absurd to suppose that metes and bounds can be established around the progress daily going on in America and Europe by the Spontaneous cure method of the Oxydonor Sanitarium company. Read this paper through. You will see what they are doing.

Bleeding at the Nose.

For bleeding at the nose the treatment at the Sanitarium is as follows: Apply cold wet cloths at forehead and back of the neck, and wet cloths pressed closely across the nose. Inhale long breaths through the mouth and snuff a solution of alum and salt or of vinegar and water and apply Oxydonor Victory under ice until the bleeding ceases. Never bend forward.

Stockmen Have a Meeting.

There was a meeting of the stockmen of this county here last Friday. About forty of the largest owners in the county were represented and they elected three delegates to go to Albuquerque to the convention which has been called to meet there on the 17th inst. to discuss questions pertaining to proposed legislation at the coming session of the territorial assembly.

Col. D. A. Martin was chosen to preside over the meeting and V. Culberson was elected as secretary. The cattlemen of this section are not all satisfied with the way they are taxed for the support of the cattle sanitary board and they will look to their interests at the convention a week from next Monday. The men selected to represent this section were W. H. Jacks, J. W. Fleming and W. S. French, all of whom are well known to the stockmen of the territory.
